

Taking steps to preserve our coastline

Ocean pools, postcard views, native animals and plants, shared pathways, places for family gatherings and spots to connect with country. These are a few of the community's favourite things of the Wollongong coastline, and that's what Council is looking to protect through the development of a Wollongong Coastal Management Program (CMP).

The long-term plan will identify current and future issues along our coastline, coastal creeks and estuaries, and detail actions to address them in partnership with residents, the Aboriginal community, community groups and the NSW Government.

The development of a CMP requires a phased approach as the complex and detailed document is broken into stages, each of which require research, community engagement and targeted consultation with key stakeholders.

At its meeting on Monday 20 March 2023, Council endorsed the Stage 1 Scoping Study, allowing work to start on Stage 2 of the project.
